THE PRICE-M'CORMICK FAILURE

BIGGEST SINCE GRANT & WARD.

Great Excitement on the Street This Morning---A Small Liverpool Failure Caused Great Flurry--The Market Has Not Yet Recovered From the Shock.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, May 25.—There was great excitement on the Cotton Exchange at the opening this morning on acconnt of the failure of Priee, McCormick & Co. It was generally believed on the floor that the failure was unlikely to involve any other members of the exchange. One small failure was reported at Liverpool and a great deal of excitement on the Liverpool cotton market, futures there opening at a decline of about 25 points. American money later brought short covering which brought a reaction with partial recovery. Enormous crowds of brokers were in the local pit. A broker started the bidding on May options, and before he could complete the purchase the price was bid up 20 points. Then came an avalanche of selling orders that sent prices down to the level of the night's closing. The Wall street market has not yet recovered from the shock over the Price, McCormick & Co. failure, with liabilities of $13,000,000. The failure in point of liabilities is the largest in the history of the street for many years and more important in this respect than the Booker-Howell failure four years ago with eleven millions, or the Grant & Ward failure.

NEGRO IN A TRUNK.

But the Mob is Close Afer Him—Sheriff Hid Him in Trunk but the Trunk Was Carried Off.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Athens, Obio, May 25—At four o'clock this morning a mob of 1,000 men made a desperate effort to get at the negro Gardiner who murdered litt'e Ethel Long. He was brought to the jail at midnight, but when the mob tried to reach him the sheriff smuggled him away to a nearby station and took him to Columbus. The sheriff hid the negro in a big trunk and carried him to the cupola of the courthouse when the rush came, and carried the trunk to a carriage.

THE "BOXERS" BECOMING BOLD.

A Demand Made on China for Their Suppression—Russian Troops at Masampho.

Shanghai, May 24.—The members of the Chinese secret society known as the "Boxers" are now openly drilling at Pekin, and many high Manchus, including members of the imperial clan, are joining the movement which is becoming so threatening that the diplomatic representatives are about to take action. B. J. DeCologan, the Spanish minister, and dean of the diplomatic corps, has made a demand upon the Tsung Li Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office) couched in the strongest terms, for the immediate suppression of the "Boxers" threatening that otherwise all the powers concerned would land troops in China.

Advices received here from Corea say Russian troops now occupy Masampho and will prevent the passage of all caravans over the territory in Corea claimed by Russia.

No Eastern Leaders Against Amendment.

Raleigh Correspondence Charlotte Observer.

About two months ago, or perhaps more, State Chairman Simmons told me that he did not know of any republican white leaders in the eastern counties who would come out and array themselves against the constitutional amendment. He knows that section well. Isaac Meekins, a Republican from the first district, who is the leading aspirant in that party for Congress, confirms what Chairman Simmons said. Meekins says he doesn't know yet how he will vote on the amendment; that he is sure it will be ratified in August by a big majority. He says he knows not one in that district who will lead the fight against the amendment, and that there will be no such leading done unless Pritchard and Butler send persons there.

A referendum vote is going on among the Boer fighting men to decide whether the war shall continue or be stopped.

THE JORDAN PLAN GROWING.

Letters from Adjoining States Show Great Interest in the Movement.

Raleigh Correspondence Charlotte Observer.

A committee of the State Tobacco Growers' Association met in the agricultural building today under the call issued by President J. Bryan Grimes. Secretary T. B. Parker read reports from various county organizations, showing very gratifying progress of the association. He also read letters from adjoining States, showing great interest in the movement. Reports from counties show great activity, and that most of the tobacco growing counties are being satisfactorily organized, though a few, which seemingly do not understand the Jordan plan, have not shown the activity that was hoped for. The committee thinks best to push the organizatlon until it shall cover each and every township in the tobacco belt. The Jordan and several other plans were discussed by the committee, which still has them under consideration. From information in the hands of the committee it is satisfied that by thorough organization it has the key to the situation and can accomplish the purposes of the association. Upon the whole, the outlook is most encouraging. Great and deep interest is being taken in the action of the association by capitalists and manufacturers and ample capital is offered to back various plans presented.

THREE RUNAWAY MARRIAGES.

Locks and Bars Had no Terrors for These Lovers.

Greensboro was today the mecca of eloping lovers, three couples coming here to be married. Early this morning Rev. O T. Routh, a Methodist Protestant preacher from Milboro, arrived in the city. Miss Anna C. Kinyon, his affianced, came down from Winston at 11:30, and together they repaired to the residence of Mr. E. C. Hamilton, on Asheboro street, where they were made man and wife. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. S. B. Thompson, of Julian. The bride and groom left this afternoon for their future home at Milboro.

Early this morning a couple from Danville, Mr. Wesley H. Witt and Miss Mary E. Daniels, presented themselves at the residence of 'Squire Eckle and desired to be made one. They were directed to the office of the register of deeds, where, after some delay, they were granted a license. 'Squite Eckle then spoke the words that joined them in holy wedlock. The couple left on the noon train for Durham.

Mr. Geo. L. Meeks and Miss Mattie Lou Carter, from near Wentworth, Rockingham county, fled from irate parents and came to Greensboro on an early morning train. They were in a great hurry to be married and lost no time in securing a license. 'Squire Wolfe chanced to be near and performed the ceremony with his accustomed grace.

GOLD HILL COPPER MINE.

The Capital is $5,000,000 and Mr. W. G. Newman is President—Salisbury News.

Charlotte Observer.

Salisbury, May 24—The following telegram, dated New York, May 23rd, has been received by Mr. Jno. M. Julian: "The Gold Hill Mines were formally turned over to the Gold Hill Copper Company today by W. G. Newman, who had capitalized them at $5,000,000. At a meeting of directors held in New York today the following officers were elected: President, W. G. Newman; vice-president, R. T. Marsh; treasurer, J. E. Van Doren; secretary, W. M. Richardson. The board of directors is composed of the following gentlemen: W. G. Newman, R. T. Marsh, J. E. Van Doren, W. M. Richardson, Byron Stratton, Gustave Reinberg and Walter Briggs."

This property should not be confounded with the union Copper Mine, a mile south of Gold Hill.

The village of Woodside, on the Yadkin Railroad 5 miles southeast of Salisbury, will seek a charter, if any private acts are passed by the June session of the legislature. The consolidation and consequent development of the granite properties near the railroad has caused the growth of a commuity at the place.

HE LOVES NORTH CAROLINA.

WILL VOTE FOR THE AMENDMENT.

'Squire Pritchett Interviewed by Chairman Holton, Who Learns a Thing or Two —Will Suffer No Dictation by Ringsters and Tricksters.

Conditions in the Republican ranks must be getting pretty serious when it becomes necessary for the State chairman to go around making personal appeals to members of the party, as is being done in Greensboro.

This morning State Chairman Holton called on 'Squire J. A. Pritchett, a life-long and staunch Republican, to know how he stood on certain matters, referring especially to the constitutional amendment. "Well," said 'Squire Pritchett, "it will not take me long to set your mind at ease on this matter. I am supporting the amendment, and if able to reach the polls on election day, will vote for it."

This statement probably did not put Mr. Holton's mind at ease, but it showed him where one Republican at least stands.

'Squire Pritchett went on to tell the Republican chairman that, while he yielded to no man in loyalty to the principles of Republicanism, he owed no allegiance to petty State and local ringsters, traders and tricksters, nor did he propose to consult the wishes of any such when he went to vote. It is presumed that this also did not give Mr. Holton much ease of mind, but it taught him that there are Republicans of character and intelligence who will not submit to dictation in matters affecting the welfare and prosperity of the State.

As a last resort the Republican chairman made the thin-air argument of the unconstitutionality of the amendment, saying, "How can you vote for the amendment when you took an oath to support the constitution?" Quick as a flash 'Squire Pritchett replied by asking this question, "Who says the amendment is unconstitutional? Until the measure is carried to the Supreme Court of the United States and by that body declared to be unconstitutional, every man has the right to express his opinion and vote as he sees fit. As a free American citizen and an old-time Republican I shall exercise that prerogative and vote for the amendment.

'Squire Pritchett made several other interesting statements, but Mr. Holton found that he was barking up the wrong tree and left. The next time he wants to convert a Republican he will know who to tackle.

'Squire Pritchett has always been known as a firm believer in the old-time principles of the Republican party, and we suppose has been voting the ticket since before the time the present State chairman knew the difference between a protective tariff and the Westminister Confession. When his party was not dominated by the greed of office he occupied a position of prominence and influence in Republican councils, serving as a member of the Legislature and holding other positions of honor and trust. It is but natural, he says, for him to support the amendment in a desire to see the condition of affairs in North Carolina improved.

Fourth Day of the Carnival.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

The fourth day of the gala week festivities will be given over entirely to athletics and the attractions of the midway.

Two games of baseball, morning and afternoon, are scheduled for today, Charlotte and Bingham being the contestants.

An automobile race will be another feature of the day's attractions.

It can be positively stated that the crowd this week has been one of the most orderly gatherings ever collected here. This is the statement of a Charlotte officer.

For Larceny and False Pretence.

Ode Clapp, colored, was today tried before Justice Eckle for obtaining goods under false pretence from J. R. Hughes and John A. Hodgin. He was bound over to court, and in default of bond was sent to jail.

This morning Constable Scott arrested Charles Pass, a negro wanted for stealing a hat and coat and several other articles. The theft occured in Durham. He was also confined in jail.

PRESIDENT WILL LIKELY GO.

IS URGED TO VISIT RICHMOND.

A Large Number of People Have Been Asked to be Present on the Occasion of the Completion of the Seaboard--Holland, the Detective Who Libelled Taliaferro, to be Prosecuted.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, May 25.—Inquiry at the executive mansion elicits the information that the President is considering strongly accepting the invitation extended by Senator Martin, Senator Pritchard, John Skelton Williams, and other distinguished personages, to be present at the banquet to be given in Richmond on the evening of June 2d, to celebrate the opening of the Seaboard Air Line from Richmond to Tampa, Fla. The opening of this great line will be a matter of great interest, and one which will have tremendous influence upon the future of the South. The President is anxious to lend his presence to the celebration to show his sympathy with all movements to develop the country. The fact that upon the date selected for the banquet the President will be, probably, very busy, as Congress will be in the final stages of dis solution, is the only contingency which can prevent the President from accepting the invitation of those interested in the Seaboard Air Line.

If President McKinley accepts the invitation, or whether he does or not, the banquet will be a notable occasion, and will be largely attended by prominent personages, in and out of Congress, representing the States traversed by the great Seaboard system. The members of the cabinet have all been extended invitations, and if the President goes to Richmond many of the members will accompany him.

If President McKinley notifies Senator Martin of his acceptance of the invitation, the Seaboard Air Line will place at the disposal of the Washington party attending the banquet one of the most handsome trains in its service. The train will leave Washington in the morning of the 2d of June, and arrangements would be made probably to bring the President back to Washington Saturday night immediately at the conclusion of the festivities.

The case of Jay G. Holland, the detective who is accused of having criminally libeled Senator Taliaferro and certain other persons, including an officer of the army, some time ago, is likely to come to trial in the criminal court in this district at an early date. The date of the trial has been selected, conditionally, for the 11th of June next. Holland since being arraigned in the Police court of this district upon the charges preferred by the Florida Senator has been out on bail. He was the otherday surrendered by his bondsmen.

Senator Taliaferro, it is said, will prosecute the charges against Holland to the full extent of the law.

The bill relative to the claim of William E. Woodbridge for compensation for the use of his invention relating to rifled cannons, and projectiles, which passed the House has been placed upon the Senate calendar, having been reported favorably. The bill was introduced by Senator Pritchard, of North Carolina.

Mr. W. E. Christian, the well known railroad man of Richmond, is in the city with Mr. John Skelton Williams, of the Seaboard Air Line.

Representative Thomas, of North Carolina has presented a petition from druggists of Fayetteville, asking for the repeal of the tax on medicines.

Earth Fortifications.

Military engineers are practically agreed that no material for fortifications is superior to earth. When clay is not obtainable, as on the seashore, sand is collected into bags, and these are laid in regular heaps along the line of the proposed fortification. In such a fortification the balls from the enemy's guns sink without doing damage, and shells explode harmlessly.

Fine Writing.

"By the way, Naggus," asked Borus, who was lounging in the office of the literary editor, "what do you consider the finest piece of writing in existence?"

"Well," answered the literary editor, with a yawn, "the Ten Commandments written in a circle of the size of a silver quarter is about as fine as any I have ever seen."—Chicago Tribune.

A Perilous Profession.

"My son is learning to be an electrician."

"Well, I suppose he knows pretty well what to do by this time."

"Oh, no; he isn't half through yet learning the things he mustn't do."—Chicago Record.

Professor Simon J. Brown, the astronomical director of the naval observatory at Washington, occasionally indulges in a bit of humor. On one occasion a colleague came into his office and, finding the professor standing, said: "Is it possible you work that way? I cannot stand standing."

"That's peculiar," replied Professor Brown quickly. "Now, do you know, I cannot stand sitting."

WEIRD AND ATTRACTIVE.

The Great Parade of the Elks in Charlotte —A Cumnock Mine Victim Taken Home.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, May 24.—The words weird and attractive will probably best describe the great Elks' parade here today.

Besides two bands, the drum corps and the entire midway, men, women and animals, the local Elks made up the best part of the procession.

Each Elk was costumed in some strange gorgeous or frightful costume. Some rode donkeys backward, others paraded as a band with instruments but made no music, and still others bore on their shoulders strange heads of animals instead of human heads. It is not saying too much to state that the Elks made a great succes of the entire parade.

The remains of John Hurley and Robert Gatewood, of this county, killed in the Cumnock mine explosion will reach here Friday morning and be buried at Paw Creek church in this county.

A Famous Kentucky Hotel.

The Phœnix hotel is in one sense the oldest hotel in the whole western country, for it has, with varying changes, continued to exist ever since the year 1800. It was here that Aaron Burr lodged in 1806 while engaged in his daring conspiracy to make himself the head of a new empire and was here met and welcomed by Herman Blennerhassett, the cultured but unfortunate Irishman he had so completely fascinated. Here, as far back as Jefferson's administration, Democrats and Federalists, in knee buckled breeches, ruffled shirts and dangling cues, talked redhot politics. It was the scene of a sumptuous dinner to Lafayette, and later was the stopping place of the wily Mexican chieftain General Santa Anna. During the civil war, while Lexington was held by the Confederates, it was the headquarters of Generals Bragg and Kirby Smith and before the struggle ended sheltered General Grant. President Arthur has also been its guest.—Lexington (Ky.) Observer.

Jack Was Glad Too.

A Salt Lake City paper reports that a tall, gaunt woman, with ginger hair and a somewhat fierce expression of countenance, lately came to the county clerk of Boxelder county, Utah.

"You're the man that keeps the marriage books, ain't you?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am," he answered. "What book do you wish to see?"

"Kin you find out if Jack Peters was married?"

Search developed the name of John Peters, for whose marriage a license had been issued two years before.

"I thought so," said the woman. "Married Lize Waters, didn't he?"

"The license is issued for a marriage with Eliza Waters."

"Yep. Well, I'm Lize. I thought I'd ought to come in and tell you that Jack Peters has escaped."

Thought They Were Dogs.

Summer in Dawson City is delightful, and even the winters, say those who have staid there in that season, are glorious. Many are the stories told about the wondrous beauties of the trail over the ice and the White pass, where even women have gone, handling their dogs from day to day as the men handled theirs. Every man and woman there has a story, all interesting and some thrilling.

"I used to like to start out first in the morning," said a Detroit woman. "Once, as I hurried my dogs down the trail in the gray dawn, I saw three stray animals romping on the way. Now, if you catch up with a stray dog on the trail, he is yours; so, my heart fluttering with joy, I began whistling to the half wild creatures.

"At first they paid no attention to me, but kept romping and leap frogging up and down the train. I slowed up my team and put myself in front, the better to make my peace with the renegades.

"When we had come within 100 yards of them, they stopped playing, sat down and stared at us. I whistled again, and they all ran. How foolish I felt when it suddenly dawned on me that I had been trying to harness three wild wolves!"—New York Independent.

They Hadn't Met.

A correspondent of the Hartford Courant tells of a news clipping bureau which sent a letter to John Bunyan, author of a work entitled "The Life of Mr. Badman," in care of a publisher, urging Mr. Bunyan to subscribe to the bureau.

"After the decease of the late P. T. Barnum," continues the correspondent, "the 'Greatest Show on Earth' continued for awhile to use the magic of his name. It was coming to Hartford, and it sent free tickets to clergymen here. Among the letters containing said tickets was one addressed to the Rev. Dr. Joel Hawes, who had died some years before. The letter was sent to Dr. George L. Walker, then the active pastor of the First church.

"On reading and pondering it Dr. Walker is credibly reported to have said: 'A letter from P. T. Barnum to Dr. Hawes! Mr. Barnum is dead and Dr. Hawes is dead. It is evident that they have not met yonder.'"

RECOMPENSE.

What is the price of manhood?
What sale does honor bring?
Does pure, untarnished character
Count naught in lifetime's ring?
Do bauble scions rule us?
Does riot, ruin reign,
The purest soul to trample down,
To crush, destroy, rend twain?
Is there no truth or honor
To cause mankind to stay
The all consuming thirst for lust
That lures them far away?
Does honest labor cheapen
The mold wherein we're cast?
Is black, corrupt impurity
The flag flung from life's mast?
Forget not One is watching
Our actions day by day,
And riches gained at such a cost
He surely will repay;
For though mankind is judging
Appearances, poor art,
The God, the just, the righteous Judge,
Inspects our inmost heart.
Condemn not, then, I pray thee,
For thou, thyself, some day
May seek for mercy from thy Judge,
Whose verdict none can sway.
And temper all thy judgments
With love and common sense.
The end well merits all 'twill bring;
It serves full recompense.
—Edwin M. Abbott in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Bare feet are almost preferable to some shoes. The kind that it is necessary to break in generally make a man break out and say things. We had made purposely for comfort a lot of men's fine kid shoes in lace and congress. The prices are right.

Achilles was invulnerable in every part of the body save his heel. The myth runs that he was rendered invulnerable by being dipped in the river Styx in infancy, the heel by which he was held being the only part not submerged and therefore retaining its mortal weakness.

Everyone has some weak spot in his physical organism, and that weak spot is the invariable attacking point of disease. No man is stronger than that weakest spot in him. We see great robust looking men go down like ninepins, at a touch of disease, and wonder at it. It is simply the wound in the weak spot, the vulnerable heel of Achilles.

It is the office of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to build up the weak places, to strengthen the weak organs of the body. It does this on Nature's own plan of nourishment. Proper food properly assimilated makes a weak man strong. But the man is only an aggregation of parts, so that the strong man means strength of all parts, heart, lungs, liver, nerves, etc. "Golden Medical Discovery" puts into Nature's hands the material by which the stomach is strengthened, the blood purified, the nerves nourished, the lungs vitalized. It makes the weak strong and the sick well. It contains no alcohol or other intoxicant.

Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg Co., S. C., writes: "I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. I took five bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good."

FRIDAY, MAY 25, 1900.

THE KENTUCKY CASE.

The long and bitter Kentucky fight seems ended. It is remarkable that so little blood was shed during so long a period of extreme tension and excitement. No man would have predicted when it began that such a result could be possible. But the very fact that so great trouble was expected had the effect of preventing it. Such expectation makes men more cautious and guarded, which fact prevents collision. It was a wonderful period of excitement, beginning during the campaign of last year. A review of the case of the contest which the United States Supreme Court last Monday decided, may not be uninteresting.

"Under the Constitution of Kentucky, contested elections for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor must be determined by both houses of the General Assembly, according to such regulations as may be established by law. The statute establishing these regulations provides for the appointment of a board of contest on the third day after the organization of the legislature. This board is to be chosen by lot. It must take evidence and report to the two houses, who thereupon determine which of the claimants has been elected. Their determination is final under the Constitution of the Commonwealth."

On the face of the returns Taylor, the Bepublican candidate, received 2,583 votes majority over Goebel, the Democratic nominee. The face majority of Marshall, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, over Beckham, the Democrat, was some larger. The State canvassing board issued certificates of election to Taylor and Marshall. On the complaint of fraud Goebel and Beckham gave notice of contest. As provided by law, the legislature took up the contest for trial. Just before a decision was reached Goebel was shot. Taylor immediately issued a proclamation declaring Frankfort in a state of insurrection, and, on January 31st, adjourned the legislature to London. Disregarding Taylor's proclamation, the legislature met, with a quorum in each house, and on finding themselves barred from the State House by Taylor's militia, held their meeting in a hotel. The Board of Contest reported that Goebel and Beckham had been elected, and the general assembly adopted the report, and by law under the constitution, declared them the Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. The oath was administered to both and Goebel died the next day. Beckham succeeded to his claims as Governor.

The case before the United States court was an application begun in the State Court of Appeals for an injunction restraining Beckham from acting as Governor as successor of Goebel, and was on the ground that the statue of the State was in conflict with the section of the federal constitution which says that "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law." The court decided that its provisions had not been violated.

Beckham is now governor, and Taylor is in Indiana or somwhere else, a practical fugitive. He has been on the defensive since the death of Goebel. With that fatal deed it is hard to believe he had anything to do. The poor State needs rest, now may it be obtained.

WHITE PEOPLE SHOULD DECIDE.

Some time ago the Telegram, following the suggestion first made in these columns by so eminent a county Democrat as Prof. J. A. Holt, who not long ago wrote and published a letter to that effect, said that the local fight among Greensboro Democrats over the dispensary ought not to be injected into the county politics and should not be brought before the county convention. Since, we have become convinced that this matter will in some way be brought before that body. And it seems that some kind of compromise between the two will be for the best interest of the party, which is bending every energy towards passing a constitutional amendment which will eliminate the corrupt negro vote.

Now, one of the great arguments, and to our mind the most forcible one in favor of the amendment, is that it will leave the white people the opportunity to settle their own local affairs without the interference of the negro who pays little taxes, and, as a bulk, cares little for the real welfare of a community. A petition is being circulated broadcast in the county, we are informed, a copy of which we have just seen for the first time, which proposes that the Democratic County convention, when it meets, shall pass a resolution declaring that the question of continuing the dispensary in Greensboro shall be submitted to a popular vote (negroes and all), and that whatever that votes says, SHALL BE ADOPTED AS DEMOCRATIC POLICY. That is, that the Democratic convention is unable to say what Democratic policy shall be; that even the whole Democratic party is incapable of saying what Democratic policy shall be, but that it must be first ascertained what anti-Democrats, the majority of whom are negroes, think, before we can decide what stand to take. That is the only logical deduction from this petition. What do Democrats think of it?

If the matter comes before the convention, as it seems likely to, let the convention bear in mind the great principle of white supremacy, for which above all things, it is fighting this year, and propose a line of action in keeping with that policy. In as much as there are Democrats on both sides, let the convention refer the matter, as the most reasonable and fair compromise, to the WHITE voters of the county. They are the ones to settle it. It is absurd to talk of letting the negro pass upon a great moral question as his last act before being disfranchised.

THE YELLOWS AND THE ICE TRUST

The American Ice Company, of New York, seems to have gotten complete control of the ice market of that city, and, consequently, has put the price of ice up to 60 cents per hundred, which is really a very exhorbitant price in a city like New York, where ice is an absolute necessity to many thousands of people who are unable to pay that price for it. The deeds of the trust gives the yellow journals of the city an opportunity for a great strut. The Journal is leading and claims that the World is imitating it with stupidity. The journal charges that the trust has not only become extortionate, but that it has corrupted enough of the city aldermen and Mayor Van Wyck, to secure valuable dock privilegss which other corporations and individuals were unable to secure.

The Herald has been getting up a fund for the free distribution of ice to the poor during the summer, and the Ice Company has donated 4,000 tons of ice to this fund. In receiving it for distribution the Herald expressly stipulated that it should in no way effect the paper's position towards the Ice Company, and it reserved the right to condemn the company as much as it pleases. The Sun, which always upholds trusts or anything else which other people condemn, gravely remarks that something must be wrong with the Ice Company or it wouldn't make this donation in the face of so much criticism.

So it looks pretty foggy for the Trust, with both the yellows, the half-yellow Herald, and the trust-supporting Sun all at its heels. We hope they will succeed in killing it.

"THE LADY OF THE CASKET."

CROWDS JEERED AT THE BURIAL.

The Occasion of the Burial of Mrs. Hiller of the Costly Funeral Was Made Sport of by Crowds Who Smoked and Ate Peanuts.

Boston Dispatch, 23rd.

The burial of Frances Hiller, the "Lady of the Casket," at Wilmington today had none of the solemnity of a funeral about it. On the contrary, it was in many respects like a country circus. Ten thousand people thronged the village, trampled over the lawns, pushed into the house, plucked flowers, laughed and sometimes even jeered at the evidences of death.

From 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the "lying in state" began, until 9 o'clock at night, not less than four thousand curious folks passed by the casket and commented on the magnificent white satin gown, with its many yards of lace, in which its occupant was laid out. The flowers in her hair, the jewelry upon her fingers, the gorgeous casket itself, all were subjects of talk as though they had been parts of a bride's dress at a wedding. The police in vain endeavored to keep a semblance of order and decorum, and when, at 9 o'clock, the doors were closed to the public, they came near being smashed in, so eager and unfeeling was the crowd.

The only solemn thing about the ceremony was the service at St. Thomas' Catholic Church. From this the curious were barred and Fathers Mahoney and Ryan performed their offices with porper spirit.

It was 10 o'clock this morning before the huge catafalque hove in sight along the Woburn road leading to the house. So high was the sombre thing that the trees along the roadside had covered it with leaves and blossoms and dust, so that the cleaning away of these was the first duty. While it was being backed up to the piazza amateur photographers, who had before pointed their cameras into the dead woman's face, aimed their instruments at the spectacle and the multitude which swarmed about like flies.

It was considerably after 10 o'clock when the casket, weighing 700 pounds, was hauled to the window, the door not being wide enough, and rolled to the top of the catafalque. The wide-mouthed throng watched the husband and other relatives and appointed persons fill nine hacks and then follow them to the cemetery.

The top of the tomb had been shovelled away, leaving in sight the wonderful marble and metal sarcophagus in which Dr Hiller was laid twelve years ago. Its brass legs were lying on top, because the tomb was not high enough to permit their being used as the Doctor had contemplated. Foolishly curious old ladies jammed themselves into the entrance to the tomb and were trodden upon. Many people were smoking, others ate bananas and peanuts. Near the cemetery some enterprising small boys had established a lemonade stand and did a big business.

The Hiller mausoleum is directly at the left of the main entrance to the cemetery, and the mound was so covered with people massed so closely together that approach was only possible by the aid of the police. The outer casket, intended for Mrs Hiller, has been drawn out upon the grass, and in spite of all the police could do the relic hunter had gotten in his deadly work on the carved cherubs and other figures.

The ceremony consisted of prayer and the sprinkling of holy water, brought in a silver bowl. The inner casket was then placed in the outer and the lid adjusted.

By the aid of rollers the casket was then dragged up the mound to the tomb and placed beside that of Dr. Hiller, the dead woman's first husband, the canopy put in place and the brass legs wrapped in cloth and aid upon the caskets. The floral pieces were placed upon the mound and the police spent the day in guarding them from the vandals.

AN ANCIENT BELIEF.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of siatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the affliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by C. E. Holton, Druggist.

WINE OF CARDUI

WOMEN WHO WORK.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.

Though only 19 years old, I suffered from pains and female troubles two years. Last spring I got so bad I had to quit work. I had to support myself, and could not afford a high-priced doctor. I got one bottle of Wine of Cardui and that made me feel better. Have now used several bottles and am well. My mother used the Wine for Change of Life and was greatly relieved.

MISS MARGARET WALSH.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Many girls and women find it necessary to earn their own living in various kinds of employment. Their work is often so hard and confining that the health breaks down. Their delicate constitutions are unfitted for tiresome tasks. Weakness nearly always makes its appearance in the peculiarly delicate womanly organs. Constant standing on the feet, and coming and going at the beck of a superintendent or foreman, induces falling of the womb, leucorrhœa, headache and backache. The pay of women workers is often so notoriously small that when sickness comes they have no money to engage skillful physicians. To them Wine of Cardui is truly a blessing. It cures them of their ills at a small cost, and they can act as their own physicians. No doctor can do as much for "female troubles" as Wine of Cardui.

SOME INDIAN MAGIC.

QUEER FEATS THE FAKIRS PERFORM IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

A Fire and Water Trick That Is Pretty Hard to Explain and an Apparent Display of Strength That Passes Understanding.

The question of how the fakirs of India perform their wonderful tricks is a matter that has for centuries interested scientists, and the best explanation that has yet been offered of the matter is that it is done by hypnotic power—that is, that the fakirs simply hypnotize the entire audience and make them think that they saw trees grow out of the ground in a second. Libraries have been written on the subject. In his book entitled "Quaint Corners of Ancient Empires" Mr. Michael Meyers Shoemaker deals in an interesting manner with the Indian fakirs.

In writing about the fakirs he says: "The statement has been made by such prestidigitators as Herrmann and Kellar that they had never seen any tricks by these men of India which they could not explain. Be that as it may, these common street magicians of India do some very clever things.

"Certainly the performance before the Grand hotel, Colombo, this morning, under the blazing sunlight and not three feet from the looker on was remarkable. As to the mango tree trick, there appeared a strong resemblance between a tree grown yesterday and the one produced this morning. But it was in the other performances that the observers were most interested.

"In one instance the fakir took a small jar of metal and handed it around to show that it was empty. Then, placing a copper coin between his teeth, he began to blow, and smoke soon issued from his mouth and nostrils. The jar, which was held aloft all the time, was found filled with water, which commenced to boil furiously.

"Passing it aside, he opened his mouth and ejected jets of living flame. Indeed the whole cavity of the throat appeared to be filled with fire, which ignited anything with which it came in contact. We all saw the empty jar, the filled jar, the boiling water and the fire, but the fire never approached the jar.

"Another trick consisted in causing a dead and dried up cobra to come to life, or so it appeared. The snake is usually kept in a small, round, flat basket with a closely fitting cover. This we saw was empty, and into it the fakir laid the flat, dried skin of a dead serpent.

"Placing it not three feet from our circle and in the brilliant light of the southern sun, he covered the basket with its lid and then made the usual passes with the inevitable cloth, about a yard square, which he held by two corners to show that it contained nothing.

"His costume consisted of one garment of the shirt order, the sleeves of which were tucked up at the shoulders, affording, it would seem, scant opportunity to hide anything, yet when, after a few waves of the cloth, he removed the lid of the basket the dead snake was gone and in its place rose the majestic head and neck of one of the largest of cobras.

"It must be remembered that when we see such work in England or America it is done at a distance and on the stage, with all the assistance of stage lights and shadows, but in this case we were out in the plain air and near enough for the serpent to have stung us.

"The last trick consisted of a display of apparently wonderful strength. A boy of 10 years of age was tied up in a large scarf, with its ends attached to two strong cords. At the ends of these cords were hollow brass cups about the size of an acorn. The fakir, raising the upper lid of each of his eyes, inserted these cups thereunder, with the hollow side next to the eyeball, after which he pulled the eyelids well down.

"Then, with hands on hips and head well back, he arose to his full height, lifting the boy a foot or more off the ground and swinging him from side to side, the entire weight of course falling upon the brass cups. It seemed a marvel that the eyeballs were not destroyed.

"Perhaps those who understand these matters can explain all that was done, but certainly no magicians on our stage have accomplished similar feats, and yet these men are but common street performers."

A KAFFIR SMOKER.

The Native Women Are Enthusiastic Devotees of the Weed.

In South Africa the native women smoke incessantly. Your native servant smokes as she cooks and as she washes. The tobacco she likes is rank. The dainty cigarette an English or Russian lady of fashion enjoys, smoked through a quill so that no nicotine can stain either teeth or fingers, would be sneered at by a Kaffir. "Give me a pipe and something in it I can taste," is in effect what she says.

The men Kaffirs are beyond tobacco. They smoke something so vehement that it makes them cough and splutter, lose their breath, choke and sneeze to an alarming degree. They like snuff, too, and are fond of offering and taking pinches of it ("schniff" they call it) when they meet and visit one another.

Regarding tobacco as too mild for their taste, the Kaffirs take another weed and smoke that. They proceed to arrange a smoking party by squatting on the ground and getting ready their "pipe," a cow horn with a thin tube in it inserted half way down at right angles to the horn. The end of the tube is in a basin, and it is from it that the smoker sucks the strong stuff that makes him incapable of anything but a series of coughs and chokes for some time after he has had his turn at the pipe, which is passed round from man to man until a perfect chorus of coughs rends the air.

The tobacco the Boers smoke looks like poor tea and is peculiar in flavor, yet Englishmen who have become used to it acquire such a taste for it that they never ask for any other kind.—London Mail.

Fasting.

Personal experience is the best teacher. I have fasted 48 hours at a time without the slightest discomfort, but drank in that period many gallons of water, of the plainest, most Croton kind. I once had acquaintance of a pig that fasted 160 days. A dog can fast two months without being much the worse. Rabbits live three weeks without food, while cold blooded animals can go for years without eating.

The bear in a state of hibernation passes into a kind of trance, so we shall not count him. The alligator likewise "dies" in the long months of winter, craving no food. There is a fish called the father lasher that can live a month out of water. That is fasting. We have heard the tradition about the toad that was sealed in a rock for 5,000 years and hopped about in lively fashion when released from his archæonomous prison. A horse has been known to fast for a month.—Exchange.

Easily Fixed.

"Awful affair at our hotel this afternoon. Cook got angry and cut the end of a waiter's nose off with a carving knife. But one of the guests fixed it up all right."

"How?"

"He gave the waiter another tip."

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the only remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try one bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

Today when a young man and his lady love came in together to procure their license, and after all the necessary questions had been satisfactorily answered, Mr. Kirkman asked of the prospective bride, "What is your weight?" At least this is what the boys in the office tell on him.

Gargling the Throat.

If one is to really do good by gargling—that is, if one is to insure that the fluid shall reach the posterior wall of the pharynx—the nose must be held and the head must be well thrown back while performing the gargling process. By gargling in the usual way only the anterior surface of the uvula and soft palate and the base of the tongue are reached. But by holding the nose and throwing the head well back when gargling the medicament reaches every surface of the pharynx very effectively.

The comparative value of the two methods can be tested by painting the posterior surface of the pharynx carefully with a strong solution of methylene blue and then letting the patient gargle with water in the usual way, when it will be found that the water ejected will be clear and unstained; then let him gargle again, holding the nose and throwing his head well back, when the ejected fluid will be found stained, and an inspection of the pharynx will show that the blue has been washed away.

This is a thing worth remembering, for many observers have maintained that gargling is not only useless as a method of medication, but is quite ineffectual even as a means of cleansing the pharynx.—Charlotte Medical Journal.
